From the Celtic settlement to a town for living and working

The municipality was awarded the Louis-Wakker-Prize by the Swiss Heritage Foundation in 1983; this was in recognition of the preservation of historical buildings in a strongly industrialized environment.

Muttenz was already populated in historical times; Celtic graves, Bronze Age findings on the Wartenberg, numerous relics from Roman times. In the 9th century a farming village formed between the Wartenberg and the Rütihard. The Alemans were fee farmers. After the First and especially after the Second World War, Muttenz developed from an industrial community to the living and working town it is today with 17'000 inhabitants and around 14'000 jobs.

Muttenz – the Energiestadt®

After first being awarded the title in 2002 Muttenz has continued to expand its catalogue of measures regarding the environment and energy and was thus awarded the title Energiestadt® for its energy policy the second time in 2006.
